The special radar photo reconnaissance project involving four aircraft and crews of the 314th Bombardment Wing, has been in operation for over one month, and has made a significant contribution to the successful planning and execution of recent strike missions.

During the period there has been a steady and marked improvement in the quality of the radar photo reconnaissance material obtained by this project. While this is to be attributed primarily to the increasing skill of the crews and their keen interest in the program, the effective assistance given to this work by the Wing Photo Laboratory, Radar Maintenance, and the Wing A-3 Section have been important factors.

I desire to commend you for the highly efficient manner in which this project has been executed. I also commend those officers and enlisted men of your wing who contributed to the successful accomplishment of this project.
